Your online destination for simplified enterprise solutions

Implementing and operating business solutions across your enterprise can be costly, risky and time-consuming. Technology choices expand every day. Trained personnel are in short supply. And integrating current systems with new ones can be complex. That's why Compaq created ActiveAnswers.™

ActiveAnswers is an online knowledge repository and virtual solutions community. It's designed to help you achieve returns on your IT investments faster and with less risk.

It simplifies and standardizes enterprise solutions by providing tools, guides, technical information and e-services from Compaq and its partners. When you register for ActiveAnswers, you'll tailor your home page to your preferred technologies and solutions interests, making it a truly personalized resource.

There's no place else like it. ActiveAnswers is simply the best way to succeed with today's enterprise solutions.

An online community with the answers you need

More than just an information bank, Compaq ActiveAnswers is also a dynamic online community where end-users, solution providers and software partners can share information with industry specialists and peers.

You'll have access to community features like online conferences and receive the latest business and technology news through Clip, the ActiveAnswers webzine. ActiveAnswers members can consult with Compaq experts who have built repeatable, best-in-class solutions around the globe.

You'll also have unique access to new e-services from Compaq and select industry leaders. Market intelligence reports, industry benchmarks and case studies from leading consultants; interactive training delivered right to your desktop; and innovative future destinations including a targeted online bookstore – those services and more are available to you as an ActiveAnswers member.

Comprehensive information, e-services and community features combine to make ActiveAnswers a unique business resource – one that puts you ahead of your competition and on top of your business.

Years of experience on one dynamic site

Through thousands of successful implementations, Compaq has built a vast store of knowledge. ActiveAnswers puts it at your fingertips. The tools and information you'll find are based on years of experience and ongoing collaboration with top vendors like Baan, Lotus, Microsoft, Novell, Oracle, PeopleSoft, SAP and others. In fact, many applications from these vendors are developed on Compaq platforms.

ActiveAnswers is a unique information hub for anyone responsible for deploying and managing technology solutions – CIOs, information systems managers and solution providers such as VARs, system integrators and consultants.

Fast, simple, reliable solutions and a world of information are all waiting for you at www.compaq.com/ActiveAnswers.
